

Legal instructions for the users with login data for our homepage

We welcome you to the websites for students and teaching staff of Bénédict School PLC and Business and Management School (BVS) PLC.

You have received login data from us and are presently trying it out!

- As a student, you have not only registered for a course, but you are also investing a lot of time in attending classes, doing homework and in taking examinations. We wish you a great deal of energy and the will to persevere, pleasurable experience while learning, so as to acquire much new knowledge.
- As a teaching staff, you are busy preparing an attractive, examination-oriented and varied lesson, or you are conducting examination trainings and are happy when the students can profit from your well-prepared lessons.

Please read the following legal instructions for the use of login data carefully!

- The received login data for the students or for the teaching staff is personal and meant for the receiver alone. Any abusive use of this data will be punished.
- Bénédict School and Business and Management School (BVS) grant you the right to download documents which are necessary for your course or any additional materials exclusively for your personal use. The teaching staff can use other offers of the respective courses and class platform: for preparing and conducting of lessons.
- These documents, which are accessible on these websites, are exclusively for the personal use by students and/or teaching staff within the framework of lessons of our school. The transfer, duplication or publication of these files or websites, be it in full, in excerpts or in altered form without a written approval from Bénédict School, BVS or from the provider is forbidden.
- Bénédict School and BVS reserve the right to change, delete or block the access to the documents or files published on these websites at any time and without prior notice.
- It is the responsibility and duty of the students and the teaching staff to back up their own copies of these documents and to update them.
- Important changes (unforeseen alteration of the timetables, room occupancy and the like) will continue to be communicated to the students and the teaching staff in the classroom, via e-mail or by post.

As soon as you have read these instructions, activate the approval, whereby you confirm that you have understood the instructions and that you agree with them.

We thank you for your attention!
